

INFORMED CONSENT FOR TELEHEALTH

This document contains important information about your participation in telehealth services. It is very important that you understand this document, as your signature will represent an agreement between us. We can discuss any questions you may have when you sign this document or any time in the future.

BENEFITS AND RISKS OF TELEHEALTH

Telehealth refers to providing therapy services remotely using telecommunications technologies, such as video conferencing or telephone. One of the benefits of telehealth is that the client and therapist can engage in services without being in the same physical location. This can be helpful in ensuring continuity of care if the client or therapist moves to a different location, takes an extended vacation, or is otherwise unable to continue to meet in person. It is also more convenient and takes less time. Telehealth, however, requires technical competence on both our parts to be helpful. Although there are benefits of telehealth, there are some differences between in-person therapy and telehealth, as well as some risks. For example:

- Risks to confidentiality: Because telehealth sessions take place outside of the therapist's private office, there is potential for other people to overhear sessions if you are not in a private place during the session. I will take reasonable steps, on my end, to ensure your privacy; however, it is important for you to find a private place for our session where you will not be interrupted. It is also important for you to protect the privacy of our session on your cell phone or other device. You should participate in therapy only while in a room or area where other people are not present and cannot overhear the conversation.
- Technical difficulties: There are many ways that technology issues might impact telehealth. For example, technology may stop working during a session, other people might be able to get access to our private conversation, or stored data could be accessed by unauthorized people or companies.
- Crisis management and intervention: Usually, I will not engage in telehealth with clients who are currently in a crisis situation requiring high levels of support and intervention. Before engaging in telehealth, we will develop an emergency response plan to address potential crisis situations that may arise during the course of our telehealth work.
- Efficacy: Most research shows that telehealth is about as effective as in-person therapy. However, some therapists believe that something is lost by not being in the same room. For example, there is debate about a therapist's ability to fully understand non-verbal information when working remotely.

ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS

I have chosen to use SimplePractice as the platform to provide the telehealth service. You are solely responsible for any cost to you to obtain any necessary equipment, accessories, or software to take part in telehealth.

The extent of phone and electronic communications that I outlined in my Therapist and Client Service Agreement still apply in telehealth. Please let me know if you have any questions about such communications.

CONFIDENTIALITY

I have a legal and ethical responsibility to make my best efforts to protect all communications that are a part of our telehealth. However, the nature of electronic communications technologies is such that I cannot guarantee that our communications will be kept confidential or that other people may not gain access to our communications. I will try to use updated encryption methods, firewalls, and back-up systems to help keep your information private, but there is a risk that our electronic communications may be compromised, unsecured, or accessed by others. You should also take reasonable steps to ensure the security of our communications (e.g., only using secure networks for telehealth sessions and having passwords to protect the device you use for telehealth).

The extent of confidentiality and the exceptions to confidentiality that I outlined in my Therapist and Client Service Agreement still apply in telehealth. Please let me know if you have any questions about exceptions to confidentiality.

APPROPRIATENESS OF TELEHEALTH

In response to the COVID-19 health pandemic, Mental Health Revolution LLC has chosen to rely on telehealth services to meet the needs of the community while keeping individuals safe. If we decide to resume in-person sessions, then I will ask that you read and agree to the terms of the Informed Consent for In-Person Services During the COVID-19 Public Health Crisis. If we decide to continue telehealth services beyond the COVID-19 public health crisis, then we will continue to assess the appropriateness of telehealth services.

EMERGENCIES AND TECHNOLOGY

Assessing and evaluating threats and other emergencies can be more difficult when conducting telehealth than in traditional in-person therapy. To address some of these difficulties, we will create an emergency plan before engaging in telehealth services. I will ask you to identify an emergency contact person who is near your location and who I will contact in the event of a crisis or emergency to assist in addressing the situation. I will ask that you sign a separate authorization form allowing me to contact your emergency contact person as needed during such a crisis or emergency.

If the session is interrupted for any reason, such as the technological connection fails, and you are having an emergency, do not call me back; instead, call the Suicide Hotline (800.273.8255), call 911, or go to your nearest emergency room. Call me back after you have called or obtained emergency services.

If the session is interrupted and you are not having an emergency, disconnect from the session and I will wait two (2) minutes and then re-contact you via the telehealth platform on which we agreed to conduct therapy. If you do not receive a call back within two (2) minutes, then call me on the phone number I provided you (847.220.8010).

If there is a technological failure and we are unable to resume the connection, you will only be charged the prorated amount of actual session time.

FEES

The same fee rates will apply for telehealth as apply for in-person therapy; however, insurance may not cover telehealth sessions. If your insurance does not cover telehealth sessions, then you will be solely responsible for the entire fee of the session. Please contact your insurance company prior to our engagement in telehealth sessions in order to determine whether these sessions will be covered.

RECORDS

The telehealth sessions shall not be recorded in any way unless agreed to in writing by mutual consent. I will maintain a record of our session in the same way I maintain records of in-person sessions in accordance with my policies.

INFORMED CONSENT

This agreement is intended as a supplement to the general informed consent that we agreed to in the Therapist and Client Service Agreement and does not amend any of the terms of that agreement. Clicking on the checkbox below acts as your signature and indicates that you have read this informed consent for telehealth and agree to the terms.
